

Secretary Aviation Shahrukh Nusrat stepped in to help flying machine maker

KARACHI (4th April, 2019) On the directives of Secretary Aviation/Director General Pakistan Civil Aviation Authority Shahrukh Nusrat, a team of Civil Aviation Authority returned the mini aeroplane to the resident of Pakpattan Chak No 632SB Muhammad Fayaz.

A team of CAA headed by Deputy Airport Manager of Lahore Airport Nazeer Ahmed Khan got the mini aeroplane from Rang Shah Police Station of Pakpattan and handed it over to Muhammad Fayaz on Thursday evening.

It may be mentioned that Pakpattan Police had taken into custody a mini aeroplane when its maker Muhammad Fayyaz attempted to fly it without registering it with any concerned authority.

Secretary Aviation Shahrukh Nusrat said in this regard that the passion and skills of mini aeroplane maker Muhammad Fayaz is appreciable and guidance will be provided to him to achieve more expertise in his field.

He said that under the New Aviation Policy 2019 - which was developed in line with the vision of Prime Minister Imran Khan - every effort which aims to promote the aviation in Pakistan will be encouraged and supported.

He further said that under New Aviation Policy 2019, the Civil Aviation Authority is not only a regulator of aviation industry but also a facilitator to promote the aviation activities in the country.

"A technical team of CAA will inspect the mini aeroplane to decide if it may be allowed to fly or not", he concluded.
